

Jenny Savely

Escambia County
Extension Agent II, 4-H Youth
Development Program Coordinator

850.475.5230

jsavely@ufl.edu

Langley Bell 4-H Center
3730 Stefani Road
Cantonment, FL 32533

Educational Program Focus:

4-H Youth Development – 4-H focuses on an experiential learning model, engaging youth in diverse and inclusive opportunities that directly engage the development of skills and insight into the community. These experiences offer a foundation for future careers and heightened awareness of their community and themselves in order to become engaged and active citizens.

Escambia County's 4-H program works closely with other extension agents and community leaders to expand our youth's knowledge in locally relevant and broader global issues in a variety of areas.

Volunteer Training – Volunteers are at the heart of the 4-H program. The agent supports the learning and success of volunteers in order that they can support the development of youth. Encouraging volunteers to engage with their community and expand interests has an overflow effect to the quality of our program and the success of our youth. The agent ensures that volunteers are prepared to ensure a safe and nurturing learning environment.

Work Experience:

2012-2014	2 years	Graduate Lecturer, Texas A&M University
2010-2011	1.5 years	Administrative Assistant, LINC New Orleans Community Development
2009-2011	2 years	Teaching Assistant, University of New Orleans
2008	1 year	Recruiting Coordinator, Duke University Career Center
2006-2007	1.5 years	Director of Tutoring, Mississippi College Community Service Center

Education:

Currently enrolled	PhD	Sociology	Texas A&M University
2011	Masters	Sociology	University of New Orleans
2007	Bachelors	Sociology	Mississippi College