

Claire Davis

Calhoun County Extension Agent I, 4-H and
Family and Consumer Sciences

Northwest Extension District

Profile

I am originally from Auburn, Alabama. I moved to the Florida Panhandle in 2020 and shortly after married my husband, Dave Davis. We have two beautiful daughters, Lilly and Blakelee.

As the 4-H and FCS Agent in Calhoun County, FL, I plan, implement, and evaluate educational programming for volunteers, youth, and adults. I provide programs where participants gain knowledge and skills. Most of my programming focuses on development in the animal sciences, food safety, and family resource management.

My programming utilizes a variety of teaching formats to reach audiences with information. I develop educational materials, tools, and resources to help clientele meet their needs.

Educational Programs

Volunteer and 4-H Youth Development

My goal for the Calhoun County 4-H Program is to provide opportunities for local youth to develop life skills, leadership, and a sense of responsibility through community-based clubs and projects, workshops, day camps, and competitive events. Additionally, Calhoun County 4-H will provide classrooms and teachers with experiential programs to further enhance life skills. In order to fulfill these goals, I will rely on a group of local volunteers to help implement the programs in clubs and the classroom. The volunteer program will be a pathway for the community to contribute their invaluable time and talents to help educate and facilitate the growth of local youth.

Family & Consumer Science

My goal for the Family and Consumer Science Program in Calhoun County is to provide and implement educational programs across a broad spectrum of age ranges and experiences. Educational programs of interest will include nutrition and family resource management. These programs will ultimately provide individuals tools to lead in their homes and communities.
